if the apparatus claims include a claim to "means" for practicing the process, the claim is a linking claim and must be examined with the elected invention. If it is ultimately allowed, rejoinder is required.

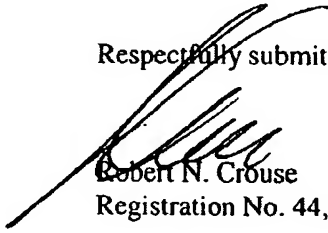

Therefore, as understood by Applicant, at least new Claim 23 must be searched with the Claims included in provisionally elected Invention II, which, Applicant submits obviates any serious burden of examining the Claims of Invention I.

Applicant has also added new Claims 24-28, which recite subject matter included in Invention II. Accordingly, Applicant respectfully requests entry and examination of new Claims 24-28 as included in Invention II.

In summary:

1. Applicant provisionally elects Invention II for examination on the merits and respectfully requests the withdrawal of the restriction with respect to Invention I;
2. Applicant has added new Claims 24-28, which are included in provisionally elected Invention II;
3. Applicant has added new Claim 23, which recites the subject matter of Claim 1 in means plus function format which provides additional bases for the examination of the Claims included in Invention I.

Respectfully submitted,
